The Late Mrs. Stoddard.

Charles Warren Stoddard not only outwardly resembled his mother, but from her received his gentleness, his love for nature and his delicate sentiment. When we used to start off to school together she watched him with a loving pride, and when he went roving in his five years' tour around the world, she wrote him that he must come home, that she could no longer endure the separation. Last week a company of true, old-time friends met up at the little chapel on Van Ness avenue, and looked upon her sweet, sensitive face for the last time on earth. My heart reached out to her son at that sad hour. The week before I had spent a cheery afternoon with her, finding her well and happy, and looking forward to her boy's return. The only | ile members form a conspicuous feature. married to Mr. Makee, a planter at Maui, Hawaiian Islands, where she lives and entertains very delightfullysometimes numbering members of the Royal house among her guests. From his sister's romantic plantation Charley wrote some of his popular articles for the Eastern and California magazines. Mr. and Mrs. Stoddard finally made their home at Maui, and the latter and Mrs. Makee lately came here upon a visit. Mrs. Stoddard's intelligent, pleasant letters to me from the Islands gave evidence that she might have become a writer of ability had she chosen that calling. She was a refined, educated lady, and as a pioneer church member in San Francisco, was earnest and faithful in charitable work and in every line of good endeavor, at a time when such laborers were few. Mr. Stoddard was one of our early mercantile men, and has hosts of friends who sympathize with him in his sorrow .-[Polly Idleway in San Francisco Post.

Resolutions Adopted by the Passengers on the Wrecked Brig.

HILO, February 22, 1887. To Captain William Matson-Dear Sir: The passengers of the ill-fated Selina, wishing to express the profound sympathy awaked by your loss, as well as the lively gratitude entertained for your many and kindly services, beg you to accept the following resolutions, which they most cordially subscribe:

RESOLVED, first-That Captain Matson, by his gentlemanly courtesy and unfailing kindness to us throughout the voyage, has won from us the unbounded esteem which he ever inspires in his passengers.

Second-That by his watchfulness and skill as a seaman on several trying occasions he in nowise weakened his already established reputation as a wise and skillful seaman and navigator.

Third-That it is the profound conviction of us all that the wreck of the brig Selina was wholly due to causes beyond the power of man to foresee, or when seen to successfully cope with, and that no just criticism can be passed upon the action of those in command during the hour of ex-

And finally resolved, that we now tender our sincere thanks to Captain Matson and the first mate, Mr. Matson, for their faithfulness to us after the vessel struck, and also request Captain Matson to extend, in our name, the gratitude we entertain to Mr. Rexford Hitchcock for his brave and efficient service rendered in securing the safety of the lady passengers; also to Judge F. S. Lyman, for the tireless care exercised in securing our baggage. A. W. BURT,

The Japanese Acrobats. The Oura Company of Japanese acrooats, who lately arrived here by the steamship Gaelic, yesterday gave a private rehearsal of a few of their feats, from which it may be safely asserted that they possess in a remarkable degree those peculiar faculties of agility, strength and courage for which their race is so justly famous. This was the unanimous verdict of the few strangers who witnessed the performance. The juvendaughter, beautiful and charming, was | So supple are their joints that it would appear to the ordinary observer that their anatomy contains an extra number of these. Their somersaults are of an extraordinary character. The youngsters, whose age range from eight to ten, tie themselves up into knots, roll about like balls, use their arms for purposes of locomotion as freely as their legs, swing themselves round on their heads as if the neck joint were a pivot, and go through a variety of other manœuvres. One of their number performs a startling feat upon a ladder reaching to the roof of the building, and poised upon one side only on the shoulder of one of the oldest assistants. While this is in progress, and all eyes are directed to the merry little fellow who is dancing about the top, holding on first by a foot, then a hand, then resting upon the stomach March 1st, 3d & 5th. with arms and legs extended in mid-air, one's breath is suddenly taken away by the ladder falling to pieces, but the youthful acrobat is in nowise disconcerted, for the single pole of bamboo still remains intact. Even more marvellous is an exhibition of the art of balancing about a score of different articles, including China cups, small rods with a long silk tassel at either end, and other things being kept in position without support alternately upon the chin, the Parlors. nose, the ent, and lastly upon a single thread. The performance, taken as a whole, is one of the most unique ever seen in this city, and none should miss the opportunity of witnessing it. It will be open to the public for the first time this evening at the Hawaiian Opera House. Particulars may be learned from the advertisement in another col-

A CALIFORNIA PRODUCTION.

The Fine Exhibit Made at the Fair by the Fredericksburg Brewing Co.

One of the most novel and unique exhibits of the Mechanics' Fair was that of the Fredericksburg Lager Brewing Co. It was in the form of a bower, the roof being formed of hop vines, while around the sides were arranged the various packages of the famous Fredericksburg beer. This company was the pioneer in the manufacture of lager on the Coast. After overcoming many obstacles they have succeeded in producing an export

Lager Not Surpassed

By any other made in the United States. A proof of this is seen in the fact that their goods are sold as far East as Chicago, despite Eastern competition. How can they do this after paying freight over 3,000 miles of railroad, it may be asked. In the first place hops are better and cheaper here than in the East; again, California barley is the best grown in the United States; but the chief reason is the superior quality of the brew. As they use only the finest artesian water and the very best material, and have all the best and latest machinery, they are able to produce an article that

DEFIES.COMPETITION.

Their Export Lager is so perfect that it will keep any number of years in any climate, and is sold largely in Mexico, Australia, the Islands, South America, and in short throughout the Western Hemisphere. In three years their output has quadrupled; last year it amounted to 33,000 barrels, and this year will exceed that amount. Since writing the above we learn that the Fredericksburg Brewing Co. was awarded the first prize, a silver medal, "for the best Export Lager," also the first prize, another silver medal, for the "best Keg Lager Beer."-| Journal of Commerce, San Francisc
